Ecotourism in the Kalinzu Forest

In only 5 hours' drive from Kampala, just on the way to the Queen Elizabeth National Park, you can reach the tropical forest with various wildlife. The Kalinzu Forest is one of the world's nearest sites to see wild chimpanzees, with many rare mammals and birds including l'hoest's monkey and great blue turaco.

Redtail monkey

IN THE MONKEY WALK, you may find a lot of wild monkeys, including l'Hoest's monkey, redtail monkey, blue monkey, black and white colobus, anubis baboon, and chimpanzee. Though common in the Kalinzu Forest, the l'Hoest's monkey is an interesting ground-dwelling monkey that is rarely found in other forests. You may also have a chance to encounter a group of wild chimpanzees that are well-habituated by the Japanese researchers since 1992. There are several courses of 1 to 2 hours. You will also enjoy a "monkey view" of the forest, using an ascender on a big tree.

You may also enjoy watching a lot of beautiful birds during the monkey walk. Great blue turaco is a rare species only found around Uganda, and you may also find other big birds, including black-and-white-casqued hornbill and long-crested eagle.

WITH ONLY 25-MINUTE CLIMBING ON THE KISHUNJU HILL, you will find a full-scale view from the Kishunju Hill. You will enjoy a beautiful view of well-preserved forest on the western slope, occasionally with a view of Rwenzori Mountains at a distance. You will also enjoy a peaceful scenery of Rutoto village. If you visit there in the early morning, you will experience a mystic scenery of the tropical forest emerging from dense fog in the dawn.
